There were tears streaming down faces at the sold-out opening ceremony for Mental Health Week at His Majesty's Theatre but they were of the good kind and it was much thanks to no-holds-barred comedian Joel Creasey, who flew home to Perth for the night to host the fundraiser. Mental Health Commissioner Timothy Marney said Stand Up! For Comedy was a night to remember laughter was the best medicine before Creasey introduced a line-up of comedians, including Sami Shah, 18-year-old Ciaran Lyons and headliner Andrew Horabin. Profits from the night went to the WA Association of Mental Health.
