Artist sought for Reconciliation Action Plan artwork

The Western Australian Association for Mental Health (WAAMH) is seeking Expressions of Interest (EOI) from Aboriginal artists to create an original artwork for our Reconciliation Action Plan (RAP).

About WAAMH

As WA's peak body for community mental health, we work to create a stronger mental health system that provides all Western Australians with the support they need – when and where they need it – to recover from mental health challenges and remain mentally healthy. We do this through advocacy, training and community events.

We are currently developing our first Reflect Reconciliation Action Plan, which will guide our organisation's commitment to reconciliation and meaningful relationships with Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander people.

About the RAP artwork

The commissioned artwork will not only be a key visual element of our RAP and any related materials; it will also reflect our values, identity and commitment to reconciliation.

Please view the Artists Brief for further information about the proposed artwork.

About the successful artist

The successful artist should be based in Western Australia and have Aboriginal heritage from one of the many Nations in WA.

The artwork will be commissioned under an exclusive, ten-year licence. The artist will retain ownership of all Intellectual Property and their Moral Rights in the artwork. The artist may provide their own copyright licence agreement, or we can develop one in consultation with the artist.

We value respectful collaboration and are committed to working with the selected artist in a culturally safe and supportive way throughout the commissioning process.
